The father/son musical team addressing life's everyday issues via life of the mind's spoken word, hip hop, R B music. 12 MP3 Songs URBAN/R&B: R&B Rap mix, SPOKEN WORD: With Music Details: Born from PoHop(Poetry and Hip-Hop) emerges the hybrid sound of Cwest (Cornel J. West) and Pops (Clifton West). The father/son team laces together a rich sound of R&B and pop to their "life of the mind" lyrics. Transcending today's classifications, it would be best described in the proverbial line as being ..."300 pounds on the street but only a hundred pounds in the sheets." Therapeutic as it is empowering, it scratches where it itches. Semantic Disconnections broaches varied topics in an artistic venue, which can only be characterized as being 'vintage Cwest'. Nobody No! tells a tale of a mother's love for her rebellious child. Poerotica transports one to a place of sensual romanticism. Lost in Translation invites us to reflect on the essence and value of our everyday lives. Fidelity speaks of the fundamental organic commitment between man and woman as carnal lust evolves into that love upon which the survival of humankind is dependent. Matter of is a special tribute piece to Dr. Cornel West. Cwest, Cornel J. West is a highly acclaimed local poet (Poet of the Year - 2003, Sacramento Observer). Operated the PoHop at locations throughout greater Sacramento area from 1997 through 2003. Host of numerous poetry slam competitions in Northern California. Pops, Clifton West (father of Cwest and brother of Dr. Cornel West) is one of the founders of 4BMWMB (Four Black Men Who Mean Business), the group that created Dr. Cornel West's two CDs, Sketches of My Culture, and his latest, entitled Street Knowledge. The title Sketches of My Culture was actually taken from a poem authored by Cwest. Clifton is songwriter on several songs on both Sketches and Street Knowledge projects.
