Details: Hello, first off thanks for checking out McKenzie Creek Band, it is appreciated a lot. So, who is McKenzie Creek Band you might ask?! Well it's a lot of good, fun music. You'll be able to hear types of songs you haven't heard since the late 60's and early 70's. Some of the main influences are obvious in the music and lyrics. You can hear The Beatles (perhaps John in particular), Tom Petty, early Floyd, the Oz and maybe some Blood, Sweat and Tears to name a few. Dave McKenzie writes and performs all the music on this album. He's been playing and writting music since he was 12 years old (which was a long time ago!!!). His first band, "Stone Fox" played in the mid-west during the late 60's and 70's. He has since played in a few bands around the country and in Japan. He now lives in the Seattle area where he recorded this album. This album, "Undercover...for everyone to see!", is really the result of support and encouregment from family and friends. They all believe that the music is good and should be shared with everyone, so here it is. We think you'll enjoy the music and we're sure that the catchy tunes will be pleasently stuck in your head and you'll be humming them all day. We hope you have as much fun listening to this album as we did putting it together for you. So please, by all means, go ahead and take a long deep drink from the creek.....McKenzie Creek that is!!!!
