Details: Stephanie Varone is the name behind a new voice that people are starting to notice in a big way. Originally from Kansas City, Stephanie is currently working in the hotbed of Minneapolis' vibrant music scene, combining her earthy old school roots with a love of classic pop songwriting. The echoes of artists like Sheryl Crow, Faith Hill, Carol King and even early Paul Rodgers (Bad Co.) can be heard in the soulful delivery of Stephanie's powerful original songs. Her live performances are full of energy and inspiration whether she's belting it out in a roadhouse, singing the national anthem in a jam-packed stadium, or thrilling audiences at the Grand Ole Opry. The next step for Stephanie Varone is her first collection of original material produced by Michael Bland and Tommy Barbarella, who both gained international notoriety as the drummer and keyboardist of Prince's core band through the 1990's. Also collaborating is award-winning songwriter Kevin Bowe (Jonny Lang, Etta James). Listen once to these songs and you'll hear what's inspiring everyone to jump on Stephanie Varone's bandwagon. ----- "Stephanie is a great singer!" -Bill Flanagan, Sr. Vice-President, VH1 "Stephanie has a rare sense of melody. Her songs are always so easy to remember and sing along with. What I find the most compelling about Stephanie as a writer is that every time she shows me a new song, it reminds me of some old song I used to enjoy as a kid...just a really, really great feeling." -Michael Bland, Producer, Award-Winning Drummer, Prince/Chaka Khan/Maxwell "Stephanie has an awesome voice. She's one of the best female vocalists I've ever recorded in my studio." -Buddy Hyatt, Producer, Fun House Studios, Nashville
