Already galvanizing an entire small town community, with her unique musical "gravity", performing to packed audiences at local venues since the tender age of 15. Alycia has blessed the Albany, upstate region with a pit-stop on her way to the national scene. At 17, Alycia created a homemade recording that already drew critical praise as well as a highly supportive northeast fan base. With a fresh, unique sound, Alycia has been lightly compared to the talents of Tori Amos, Fiona Apple and Sarah McLachlan. Alycia's songwriting talents have made her a finalist in the National John Lennon Songwriting Scholarship Competition, and an honorable mention in Billboard.com's worldwide songwriting competition. In '04, Alycia, at a tender yet dignified age of 19, joined the national touring act The Geno K Experience as keyboardist/vocalist, and has continued to musically grow in infinite directions. David Malachowski from The Times Union raves "Alycia Ercums is someone who isn't a musician because she wants to be one, but because she has to be one. A true artist whose deep emotional impact is magnified by her mesmerizing charm, charisma and presence." 2005 has brought Alycia to teaming with major-label production team of, Chris Liberti Mark Ambrosino, in NYC, to begin work on her first fully produced demo/album.
