Michael Moushon Biography: Born in Evanston, IL, adopted and raised by a young couple in Westmont, a suburb of Chicago, Illinois, Michael Moushon, singer/songwriter began to realize his love for music at an early age. The son of music lovers, he spent much of his time around the house listening to artists such as The Beach Boys, James Taylor, Simon Garfunkel, Aretha Franklin, The Rolling Stones, and The Beatles. While listening to such greats, Michael was working on his own musical abilities. "I remember playing my father's trombone and the family piano very often at an early age." He continued to learn new instruments one after another, and hasn't stopped yet. Moushon took on the challenge of learning how to play the saxophone, then the drums. Michael remembers, "I used to go home after school and sit in my room listening to AC/DC's "Back in Black" album, from my father's record collection, while banging on a drum set my parents bought for me." It wasn't until the age of thirteen that Moushon discovered his love for guitar and voice. Just two years later Michael began writing his first songs and developing his skills for the craft of songwriting. Not long after, he started to perform regularly and became known for his musical abilities In 1997 Moushon left home to study music at Millikin University in Decatur, Illinois. He then received extensive training in the areas of commercial, jazz and classical voice, as well as guitar, piano and various percussion instruments. In 1999, Michael just nineteen years old left for NYC to study voice with Katie Agresta and work in the recording and engineering industry at Image Recording Studios. Moushon then ventured out to Los Angeles in 2000 to study voice with Gloria Bennett at UCLA and intern for Sugarhill and Vanguard Records. Moushon's growing desire for writing songs led him to pursue performances of his original material. Michael began playing regularly at various venues around the country. His performances have ranged from bars, colleges and universities, restaurants, resorts, clubs, hotels, parties, charity events and conferences all over the country. Moushon has composed as well as performed his songs for network television and other stations in Illinois. Moushon admits, "Traveling around the country and abroad has made me want to perform and write music that will in some way speak to and touch the different types of people represented in my audiences." Moushon moved to Boston in January of 2002, to attend Berklee College of Music to study as a voice principle, and to continue furthering his career in music. Michaels current band consists of players from South America, Asia and Europe. Moushon performs his original music, a blend of jazz chords, pop melodies in the context of a rock band, at his concerts all over the country and abroad. He feels at home on stage, and puts every part of himself into each performance. In his young career as a singer/songwriter, Michael Moushon is at all times determined and motivated to craft innovative and fresh ways to reach people.
