Richard Soaring Owl and Keith Little Grizz are recipients of the 2005 Silver Arrow Awards, for their outstanding contributions to Native American music. Two Hearts musical trade mark evolved around performing duets with the Native American Flute. Although each has their own distinctive style, when playing duets, they are taking their two independent hearts and combining them together to play as one. Soaring Owl and Little Grizz perform hauntingly beautiful flute artistry that blends with the sounds of the acoustic guitar, which will easily place you in a saurian meditative state. As they performed their music during the 2005 season on the Pow Wow trail, they constantly tried to expand their horizons. Serenity is a result of that growth. Two Hearts has seamlessly crafted musical elements of the acoustic guitar, chimes, rattle, and hand drum which are interwoven with the deep and haunting sounds of the Native American flute. Jim from Cedar Song Flutes writes; "As a full time flute maker I get the opportunity to hear many people play these wonderful instruments. Everyone has they're own style and they're own song and all are beautiful. Two Hearts is no exception. Soaring Owl and Grizz are both extremely talented flute players each with their own unique style. It's when they come together as "Two Hearts" that the real magic appears. In this latest work they've come together to blend a variety of instruments to create a tapestry, a story, of beautiful music. Two Hearts gets two thumbs up!"
