Details: Born in Israel, Dorine followed her family and moved to Canada when she was only 6 years old.

After 8 years spent living in Montreal, Dorine's parents decided to move back to Israel, and so they all did.

At first, Dorine had difficulties to become accustomed to the life in Israel; she had to learn a new language and a whole way of living. Going through these difficult times, like many teens of her age often do, Dorine turned to music for comfort. Quickly started playing the guitar and writing original her own songs. At the age of 18, Dorine collaborated with the producer Roy Sela. When inviting her to his studio, they wrote the song "La mort" together. A year after, the song was published under the compilation named "9 beach", and it was released as the first single of nine tracks. "La mort" was heard all over the world. Dorine is releasing her first EP, produced by Adam Gorlizki (Matafix), and she is currently finishing her first album"
