Up until last year, I'd written exclusively for an adult audience. Here is the story of my foray into writing music for children their families. thanks, bradley In the fall of 2007, I decided to write a few songs for my niece Shirley's 2nd birthday. I had written many songs, to this point, but had never attempted to write songs for children, so I wasn't sure how I would fair. I finished 3 songs, before her birthday arrived, I presented her a cd of guitar/vocal recordings of the songs. Shirley's (her parents) reaction was positive enough that I decided to write another batch of songs. By christmas I had finished 5 more songs. I made guitar/vocal recordings of the 5 new songs in addition to 2 favorites from my own childhood (a long, long time ago). Throughout 2008, encouraged by Shirley's parents all four of her grandparents, I added more instrumentation to each track. I played most of the instruments myself, but recruited my twin brother Brandon (Shirley's father) to play banjo on several of the songs. I then begged my wife Shannon to sing with me on 'There's a Hole in the Bucket' (another childhood favorite) the album was complete. Enjoy! note to buyers: The 1st run of duplication for this album was a short run done through Discmakers. On short run duplications, Discmakers uses cd-r's. I only mention this because some consumers prefer to be told upfront when they are purchasing a cd-r. I assure you that the quality is top-notch. The recording, mixing, mastering are all very high quality, the packaging, presented in a thin jewel case, is beautiful. thank you, bradley
