Patriotic, political, and personal solo acoustic alt.country rock seethe the martin guitar in the hands and the harmonica around the make out "The Big Hit" is a small bit of folk in a complicated world-wide 10 MP3 Songs ROCK: Americana, FOLK: Political The Big Hit Songs Details: "The Big Hit" is a small bit of folk in a complicated world-wide Acoustic blues, intimate alt.country, a small rock and roll; old school American music. Liberal patriotic tunes on one hand, and a few tunes about unrequited love, or loves that went on a small too long on the other, in the grand American tradition of music from the people. Track 9, "Green Valleys of Tennessee" is an intimate view of a soldier on the field. Track 2, "Four Years too Long" is that kinda regret from leaving someone a bit too late. Track 1, "Gas To Albuquerque Blues" is a punchy, tight blues number with rollickin' blues harmonica. and Track 10, "Selfish" is what happens when you get a audience to sing along with an anti-inspirational confessional pop song: "I decided today to be a small more selfish; oh, I decided today to be a small more mean. It ain't in my nature but neither is success, and I'd rather be dirty than a f*in' failure and clean." I like all of them; but those four might be a place to start.
