Songs Details: "Sirens Lament arose from the music that appears and follows me at any given moment. It is a symphony that haunts me as I lay awake composing. It is the lyrics that come in whispers that will now be given life." Sirens Lament is the solo project of singer/songwriter Aradia. Born of Cuban decent in Queens, New York, at the age of seven Aradia began to study classical piano. Although she enjoyed playing classical music she found herself wanting to compose her own pieces. Her high school years were spent exploring her artistic side through music, dance and acting. Her college years led her to formally study Classical and Jazz vocals while being a dance major and dabbling in other instruments. After years of working with other musicians, Aradia decided it was time to record and release her own music. Sirens Lament is a mixture of the styles of music that have influenced Aradia through out her life which includes Industrial, Gothic, Dark Metal, Ambient, Classical, and Electronic music. She wanted to bring a womans voice to the Industrial scene while combining other influences. There is a definite blend of classical and Industrial distorted vocals found throughout Sirens Laments body of music.
