Details: Since 1993, Big Blow and the Bushwackers has spread their blend of folk, world, comedy and sonic explorations throughout the Mid-Atlantic area. Starting as a duo of mandolin/voice and didjiridu, the Salisbury, MD group quickly grew into a quintet playing over 50 instruments. Accordion, trombone, didjiridu, tuba, trumpet, sax, clarinet, banjolin, vocals, Mr. Thing, flophone, and hedgeclippers to name just a few. With a wide palette of timbres, this five-man band is more like an unconventional mini-orchestra. Add the broad mix of sources that make up their repertoire, and you can see why a Big Blow performance is always lively. From English ballads to pop-satire, Cajun dance tunes to Irish jigs, or atmospheric songscapes to frantic improvs, the music of Big Blow and the Bushwackers takes you on a world-wide aural cruise. With 4 CDs, you can enjoy their music without even leaving home. WHAT DIDJURED? - their first CD release - features the brass on Ted Porters Tom Deadlight, captures the haunting atmosphere of Never Seal, and rocks to Tom Jawbone Weldons Please the Ploughboy. HABAGOOOLA is the bands second CD. Polka Pair of Dice, original ballad Ted Porters How Many Miles to Babylon. rock-n-roll didj Fiddler A Dram, and comically twisted blues Hey, Healthboy are just a few of the many flavors offered here. The band always has a strong Celtic undercurrent. Big Blow and the Bushwackers focused that love in their third CD - OFF KILTER - A Celtic Outrude From classics to originals, ballads to Irish pub songs, this all-Celtic CD aint the sterilized sweater music of the Clancy Brothers. HANDY is the title of the bands fourth CD. From the ironically positive and comical I

Dont Care to the ancient Icelandic Raunon Valssi, or the Civil War era song of the underdogs moment of glory Hound Dog Song, this CD continues the Big Blow tradition of travelling the planet and time through song. HANDY also features the bands unique rendition and groove in the Gospel/Blues song Everybody Oughtta Treat a Stranger Right. A song to live by, this is a favorite wherever the band plays.
