Pop rock music with philosophy and humor 13 MP3 Songs POP: Piano, ROCK: Folk Rock Details: Jonah Rank is a part-time solo artist who goes by the stage-name Jonah Rank. His real name is also Jonah Rank. Life is easy as such. Jonah makes music to make people feel happier. He also explains much more of his etiology and biography in his Blog at jonahrank.com. Although you can hear 2-minute clips of all 13 of the tracks off of the album at this glorious webpage (may God have mercy upon cdbaby.com), you can actually hear FOUR FULL tracks from the album FOR FREE between Jonah's real official Space at myspace.com/jonahrankmusic and Jonah's page at purevolume.com/jonahrank! Loud and Dumb (2006), Jonah Rank's first album, was released December 8, 2006. Immediately, the album began to sell like hotcakes (whatever that means). On his debut solo album, Loud and Dumb, which features twelve new and original songs (plus one old and not-so-original song!), Jonah plays most of the instruments (at the same time) and sings about worldly topics ranging from ethnocentric journalism to elephants who speak Spanish fluently! Loud and Dumb, a random assortment of Jonah Rank's loud and dumb songs, has already received critical appraisal from around the world! Here's what some reviews of the album on Myspace have said: u off the chizzle Oktane ur music sux some user named Dillon Check out my new song Mel Gibson. You can add it to your profile at myspace.com/ericschwartz Eric Schwartz Jonah hopes that Loud and Dumb will continue to do exactly what his favorite thing in the world is: to make people feel happier. Jonah urges all music-lovers out there to take advantage of this CD. "You know," he once said, "my debut CD is actually cheaper than Prozac!" (For more information about each of Jonah Rank's songs, feel free to type the names of the different songs on the album into the search engine at jonahrankand hit enter like you've never hit enter before!)
