Influenced by his father, who was a professional musician in Cleveland, Ohio and who had his own big band. Rob excelled at trumpet, winning first place in state contests every year for four years of high school, first chair all-county Geauga county, officer and first chair trumpet in high school, band captain senior year and a member of "Tri M" (Modern Music Masters). Rob won the John Phillip Sousa Award in his senior year for West Geauga's high school's recognition of outstanding musician. This remains mounted on the school plaque today. Rob began playing guitar and writing songs after high school, influenced by Dave Mason., Eric Clapton, the Allman Brothers, Carlos Santana, The Doobie Brothers, Loggins Messina, and others. He, with Frank Castle, formed his first professional four piece band called "Coventry". Based out of the Cleveland, Ohio area. They played almost every hot spot night club in Cleveland and then began traveling the east coast playing the popular top forty hits along with several songs written by the band. They played the major hotel chains and clubs throughout the east coast. The band was booked six months in advance and began building a following when it split up. Rob as the only remaining member continued with "Coventry" as a three piece band for the following eighteen months. Rob joined a show group called "Baby Grand" for the following six months quit traveling in 1978 but still plays and writes.
