When considering building a home, couples look for the right architect, right builder, the right decorator. Accomplishing their goal and making sure they get exactly what they want is in part due to everyone working off of the same blueprints and plan, while exercising their unique talents and skills. With the same care and even more, couples should invest in building their marital houses. Making sure they are working off the same plan, laying a solid foundation and doing what's necessary to maintain a solid relationship. In Renovating Your Marriage, Dr. Johnny Parker speaks to couples about building a house of togetherness brick by brick from the foundation up. He encourages them to consider the two possible foundations upon which a marriage is built; then walks them through an inspection of their marital house, room by room and helps them answer the question: Is it time for a marriage renovation?
