"I'm a big fan of virtuosos like Satch and Vai, but I don't play that style of guitar. My teachers were Michael Shenker, Frampton and Rush, so I'm quite sure that comes into play where my technique is concerned". Simply put, this 2nd album screams classic rock and you'll know that as soon as you play the first track. "Being in total control of your own music from start to finish is something only recently available to the vast majority of musicians and it has been worth the wait as far as I'm concerned. I like that my material comes out the way I intended without having to explain or concede anything to anyone". High Idle Records believes that there is still room in the "Inn of hi-tech virtuoso shredders" for Classic Rock. Click on some soundbites and see for yourself that Old School Hard Rock still has a place to be heard and appreciated. Eve Sieber Manager / High Idle Records
