TB - off the cuff: I just had to! :) What can I say. I love revisiting my tunes when they're done and seeing just where they can go. It's really a neat process of stripping them down just to the basics and then "going with the flow." Another Path also allows me to use the same initial creations to hit a completely different demographic than I can with the original album. At least, that's one of the goals. Hope you like!
