"I learned early on in life from listening to my friends, family, and fans, that music has a way of touching people differently, and people overall want to listen to music that makes them feel good and experience the depth of the lyrical and musical qualities of a song. My fans are being taken to a new place in their lives where they can feel passion or personal healing to help fill an empty void and bring comfort back into their hearts. The music I sing sounds like passion is coming from my soul and my voice. That is always the most important thing to me. My goal on "Miracle" was to create feel good music and find the best people to help me create it," commented Church. With a remarkable group of producers including songwriter and producer Mike Guerriero, the album contains songs that speak to every individual who yearns for feeling passion through music. An early burst, "Miracle" with Church recording in New York City in early 2009 came to the 43-year-old Colorado native this was the groundbreaking moment he was living out his true dream of sharing his love for music with the world. I wanted to sing a song that melodically and lyrically represented the miraculous situations I had experienced in life, and understand what I felt in that moment in the vast Universe. I walked up to the microphone and the song just came out naturally and was recorded in less than an hour in the most magical way." Church knew very early on that music was his true passion. He had a talent for playing the piano by ear and singing with the radio almost since birth. His family recognized and encouraged the further development of his talent and supported his decision to get formal training as he went off to University of Colorado at Boulder to get his degree in Music. After graduating, he went to New York City to pursue his dream of performing on Broadway. After a slight detour into the business world where Gregg was a successful marketing executive and business leader, he has found his way back to pursuing his lifelong dream and following his passion in music and has premiered with his first single Miracle. With Greggs voice and passion for music this song speaks to your soul. Tags: pop
