Strong songs about love, the importance of memory, spirit and landscapes, built around a forceful but personal vocal style, grounded on the rhythm section and driven by guitar on most tracks, piano on others -intelligent music that swings. 14 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, ROCK: Americana Details: About the album: Kathy Tugman calls her music "alternative pop," meaning that it is based in a variety of popular styles (pop, rock, country, folk, ballads and story songs) but is unified through an emphasis on the importance of memory and external and internal landscapes in defining who we are, who we love, what we hope to be. The songs are tightly crafted but are open to a variety of musics and a range of influences, never forgetting that the soul is moved when the body is, too. The songs are built around Kathy's strong and varied vocal style, grounded on the rhythm section and driven by guitar on many tracks, piano on others. This is intelligent music that always wants to swing. Artist bio: Kathy Tugman has played music of many different kinds and in a wide range of settings since she was very young. Today, she is an accomplished songwriter and singer of what she calls "alternative pop," a music that encompasses several American styles while sticking close to the tight structure of popular, country and folk songs. She is also a choral singer (an alto), a pianist with classical training, an organist and a guitar player. (On her new album, she also makes her debut as an harmonica player.) "Nothing I'll Ever Miss" is her fifth album. Her next record will be one of lullabies, both traditional and newly composed. An album of original jazz tunes is in the writing stage. DaHouse Band is made up of two supremely talented musicians. Eddie Gwaltney is one of those who can play anything but also understands and uses music theory. He has written for the stage and shared the bill with many artists, including Tom Petty and Taj Mahal. Jo Whitaker plays drums in two jazz bands and a prog rock group (Somnambulist) with a hit album. Jo is also an accomplished studio engineer and arranger. Kathy has been most fortunate to have played with Eddie and Jo since 1994.
