A 48 page book/CD of original writings, photographs and music about the beauty of flight. The Native American flute is accompanied by piano/keyboards, harp and violin. 13 MP3 Songs WORLD: Native American, NEW AGE: Healing Details: 99 News review by Jacque Boyd November/December 2006

Susan Maule has combines her talents as a pilot, a writer, a photographer and a player of the Native American flute to produce a small joyful book illustrating the joys of flight. She combines colorful graphic designs with simple text. Then she tosses in some of the most wonderfully evocative aerial photos Ive ever seen. As one more bonus for the reader, she adds an hour-long CD of original music for the Native American flute, piano and keyboard, violin and harp. The entire 48-page package is an absolute wonder. The music is meditative, contemplative and filled with an energy exemplified by Susan herself when she says, When we fly we are suspended in natures beauty. Beauty is in the dusk, in the dark of night and in the first light of dawn. Beauty is in the bright of midday. A wondrous sight has the capacity to heal. It holds the answers to our questions. It brings joy, peace and reflection. It can be life altering. [From the books back dust jacket.] To see photos and pages from "Celestial Journeys" visit susanmaule.com Susan has always been overwhelmed by the beauty and serenity of flight. The sights from the window of her aircraft seem a completely separate realm. Her desire to share these experiences inspired her to write a meditative and relaxing book of written images of earth and sky. Music always goes hand in hand with visual beauty. Thus came the idea for Celestial Journeys which combines the writings, photography and music of Susan Maule for a meditative view of our planet. Other musicians are Jeremy Rwakaara piano and keyboards, Cathy Palmer of the celtic band Connemara on violin and Abbie Palmer on Harp.

"Celestial Journeys is a little gem and a mind/heart opener. [Susan's] heartfelt insights should make everyone want to fly - if not actually, then in imagination." - Joan Lyford - integrated arts instructor

"[Susan] has such a great ability to find something special in something others either don't notice or just take for granted." - Laureen Sacco - pilot Her first CD is Calling The Moon.
