Details: My American Mind is a compilation of songs written from January of 2008 to December of 2008 and recorded in early February of 2009 while Caroline was living in Barcelona, Spain. Songs are nostalgic, both upbeat and melancholy, sprinkled with punches of humor and filled with observations and reflections about growing up, leaving home, and other natural and inevitable changes that all of us as humans are bound to experience. The genre and style stays true to Caroline's first two albums, Back on the Train (2007) and Pollyanna (2008), while new experiences yield new stories and ideas from a time of living in a foreign country, yet very much still living in My American Mind. With her music, Caroline invites you to share in her adventures and explorations, and encourages you to continue discovering new ways of living life to its fullest.
