Modern classic rock - big chorus, deep lyrics, rock roll guitars, lots of singing, and guitar solos - that's right, guitar solos. 12 MP3 Songs ROCK: Classic Rock, ROCK: Roots Rock Details: The Pharmacy Prophets began as an acoustic collaboration that blossomed into a full-blown rock band of the highest order. While the songs on "Songs of Death and Happiness" are acoustic-guitar based, there are enough meaty electric guitar tones to satisfy the most jaded modern rock aficionado. The CD features huge choruses, intelligent lyrics and walls of vocals, with emotional lead singing and lilting, harmonious background singing. Thick bass and full-out rock drums round out the guitars, creating a powerful, modern classic rock album. The Pharmacy Prophets have quickly established themselves as a top original band in the DC area. The single "Century" was a top 10 download from the Washington Post's website for ten straight weeks, and their notorious "Pop Quiz" interview in the Washington City Paper has been hailed as the "Best Ever" by the readers. They are also very active in the Arlington music community, as they organized and were featured in the Alternative House Benefit concert at the historic, 800-capacity State Theatre in Falls Church, VA on September 25. In January 2004, "Songs of Death and Happiness" was nominated for the Rock Recording of the Year award from the Washington Area Music Association (WAMA).
