Live from KUT radio station in Austin, Texas; homegrown multi-instrumental ambient space electro acoustic positive energy amplifier 7 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Ambient, JAZZ: Avant-Garde Jazz Show all album songs: Where We Will Meet Again Songs Details: In 2002 I wrote this batch of non linear autobiographical songs specifically to play live in the KUT studios. In 1989 when I released my first ambient C.D. I started down what has in retrospect now been the most colorful part of the road for me. As the audience evolved for meditative space jazz so did the technology available to perform it. At this point I had been recording and playing space music live for 13 years and I had learned to use several digital looping systems at once. This allowed me to play my various instruments live into the loops and play along with them. During this period KUT radio used their state of the art studio to broadcast their live shows. The energy of playing live is something I'm always trying to capture so I was pleased when the recording came out like I hoped it would. This was my last release until my new ambient C.D. I just finished. This instrumental performance winds through many of my most surreal memories/dreams and is loaded with flute, guitar, tables, and lots of deep space.....see you there.
