A Celtic band steeped in tradition yet daringly original, Piper's Crow presents top-notch instrumental and vocal prowess and an array of instruments including flutes, bagpipes, fiddle, guitar and autoharp. 13 MP3 Songs WORLD: Celtic, FOLK: Traditional Folk Details: "This release is the premier album from Piper's Crow, a quartet that specializes in traditional material (plus sympathetic originals) from the breadth of the Celtic realm, stretching from Scotland and Ireland to Galicia and Cape Breton Island. The band's eponymous CD is a gorgeous collection of rich, haunting melodies, exhilarating jigs and reels played with rippling zeal, and songs featuring Laura MacKenzie's exquisite voice. Much of Piper's Crow's charm is derived from the sparkling interplay between the musicians, especially the exotic bagpipes and assorted wind instruments deftly wielded by MacKenzie and master piper Dick Hensold, while Zack Kline's fiddle weaves devilishly amongst them and Karen Mueller helps drive the entire business on guitar and bouzouki. This is wonderful stuff that's musically provocative while rarely failing to elicit a smile or an urge to bound about the room." --Review from the Minneapolis/St. Paul City Pages, January 20, 2006. Piper's Crow is: Laura MacKenzie: wooden flutes, whistles, Scottish smallpipes, medieval greatpipes, concertina, gemshorn, and vocals Dick Hensold: Northumbrian smallpipes, medieval greatpipes, low whistle, gemshorn, and recorders Karen Mueller: guitar, bouzouki, autoharp Zack Kline: fiddle, octave violin
