extraodinaire and member of the band Black Rose For a little deja vu we caught Rick Stahl in the Downtown Room of Birminghams Midtown cafe. When he starts playing Simon and Garfunkel, Bob Dylan or his own originals accompanying himself on acoustical guitar in that coffee house setting...you slip back to the times of flower children, rap sessions and black-light posters. ...from Monthly Detroit Magazine - Steve Gannon, Morning DJ on WNIC radio and writer Rick is a talented performer and songwriter and all around great guy and friend. Rick sings and plays with the ease of a seasoned performer - better yet, he has FIRE and is a pleasure to see and hear. You may sense the influences from Motown but they never override his own unique style. Rick Stahl is very easy to listen to and provides an enjoyable setting of music. You'll want to hear for yourself - I believe you'll agree! - Dan Kirchner, Guitarist Stylist/Composer "Tasteful guitar, velvet vocals and passionate delivery are the hallmarks of Rick Stahl's music. He has the rare ability to transfix an audience and draw them into the emotion of the song, whether playing before a crowd of 20 or 2000. Rick's performances are guaranteed to leave you smiling!" - Hope Grietzer, President of the Black Rose Acoustic Society and Colorado state champion fiddle player
