Instructional Details: Joette Calabrese, HMC, has studied and practiced nutrition and classical homeopathy since 1986. For five years she studied in Toronto for her degree as a Homeopathic Master Clinician. Previous to this she studied with world class homeopaths from England, Holland, Israel, and India. Ms. Calabreses presentation schedule includes corporations, libraries, schools, civic organizations and monasteries and she is on staff at Daemen College in Amherst, New York. She has had numerous radio engagements and is published in the nationally acclaimed Homeopathy Today. Ms. Calabrese has been a vocal advocate for self-provided health-care since she and her husband, Perry began raising their three boys. She is the author of many products in the field of nutrition, homeopathy and whole health. Her ability to teach nutrition techniques and treat homeopathically has helped many gain robust health. With her varied background, Joette brings to her work passion and commitment. This is a culmination of her years of homeopathic practice, nutritional counseling, teaching and raising a family.
