Three very different experiences of nursing training. Barbara has always loved singing, but her accompanist wants more commitment from her, and to go for the big time. Nursing and singing don't mix, which means Barbara has a big decision to make. Nikki feels she has nothing in common with her community nursing patients, until she realises that some problems are the same wherever you are. Now she needs the courage to face her own problems...Nick is not looking forward to nursing a lot of little kids, but once he starts, soon finds he is having a good time. He soon starts thinking about his own childhood, and and things he hasn't thought about since he was a boy. Maybe this term could be more important than he expected...
