Natural ambient sounds of Everglades National Park, including frogs, crickets, birds (hawks, bobwhites, nesting wading birds), insects, and thunders rains. Day sounds and night sounds. All sounds are natural. 7 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Ambient, NEW AGE: Environmental Details: Voices of Everglades National Park presents ambient natural sounds of the Everglades recorded in Everglades National Park by James T. Miller in May through September 2006. Noted electronic musician and composer Jack Tamul did the sound editing and engineering. Go to evergladesmusic to learn more about the Pahayokee: A Plea for Life project that Jack and Jim are working on at this time. The CD features sounds from seven different Everglades environments during the annual wet season. Voices of Everglades National Park is a part of an ongoing project by Jack and Jim to do what they can to help save the Everglades. Proceeds from the sale of the CD will be used to promote concerts of Pahayokee: A Plea for Life - a song cycle of the Everglades written by Jack and Jim and sung by baritone John Boehr.
