A home-recorded funeral for a dead bird. Voted 3 best italian indie of 2006. 9 MP3 Songs POP: Folkly Pop, ELECTRONIC: Experimental Details: have you ever felt like you're pissed in isolation and sad in the head but still able to see the wonder and the truth which is: there is no other strength than weakness there is no other aesthetic than urgency there is no other thing than care? well, we are two. this is my cd. i started home-recording it in 2005 and finished june 29th 2006, on my 23 birthday. its 9 electro-acoustic songs I played on piano and guitar and sang and digital-edited. Im lucky cause I found some people believing in this cd and they supported me. can you believe it has been voted 3 best italian indie of 2006? yes. and hope I can share it with you. thank you all. here are some reviews: "It is unusual for me to be so touched from a cd totally home-recorded, where the natural sound defects are definitively outclassed by an inspiration so expressive." Sonicbands "This music follows undisturbed its way towards the listener's soul." Extra! Music Magazine "The listener is mesmerized and touched by this long daydream-like procession." In musica "You should really listen to this demo." Rocklab "A work of great emotional impact." Citymusic "Despite the young age, Andrea released a very good composed work, and making it all alone." Musicunderground "A really wonderful demo, that I hope will consecrate Andrea Liuzza as a new face in the italian musical landscape." Impattosonoro "7.2." Sentireascoltare #23, september 2006 "Art for art's sake without compromise." Blow Up magazine #104, january 2007 "Simply magnificent." Getecho music blog
