Audio comedy skits from intelligent irony to modern superficiality. 38 MP3 Songs SPOKEN WORD: Sketch Comedy, SPOKEN WORD: Comedy Details: 'Mutation' is an ad-lib comedy and audio editing team that has been making audio skits since 1990. The Mutation team is back at it fresh in 2006. We have three new albums: 'Empirical Aquariums', 'Carpet of Capricorn', and 'The Jolly Golden Goose'. The Mutation team has a strong work ethic producing new material for their fans, never leaving them without new albums to sink into. The intellectual child-at-heart will find a genre worth delving into. Modern commentary and figures from history and literature make their way onto the Mutation stage. With heavy influences from such BBC greats as Rowan Atkinson, Jennifer Saunders, Stephen Fry, and the Monty Python crew - the frolicking silliness of this U.S. comedy team presents an alternative to the modern anti-intellectual. Every album is a variety show with new and reoccurring themes and shows. Some of the reoccurring and ongoing episodes include: 'Of Chemical Bondage' (a dramatic and comedic look at modern addictions), 'The Chipmunk Monks' (two chipmunks trying to witness to humans the error of their unnatural ways - one was raised in a Buddhist monastery, while the other Catholic), 'Scientist Today', 'Candy and Stacey' (two Lesbian variety show hosts), 'Oh My God Another Fetish' (an ad-lib back and forth updating the masses on deviant practices). Soon, very soon, we will be releasing some vintage mutation compilations, with the first one being 'Ogreian Cyst'. For a promo CD message us your mailing address and email. We especially like College radio and streaming audio stations.
