A very special thanks to the men and women who have fought and sacrificed their lives for our safety. To those who are still fighting, putting their lives on the line everyday we pray for your safety to return home soon. May God bless you. Now is the time for new beginnings because we have come so far and achieved so much. The history of our country starts with us as a people and ends with us as one great nation. It is We the People who has bought us to where we are today, though we face difficult times dealing with a fallen economy and terrorism on our own soil we still stand for greatness. Now is the time to put away our differences, stand tall, face our aggressor and say: We're Born Again American
