Details: This is about the sadness that awakens your heart in the middle of the night. Its about those delectable moments with lovers you hope will never fade. Its about the time your teacher gave you a failing grade. It brings out those memories that are heightened by your sense of smell. It touches every nerve youve tried to kill with a bottle of booze or pills. It's as honest as a 2-year-old, yet as corrupt as a politician. Its about sitting on a dock with a great friend as you talk your soul into the pond. Its the refreshing taste of an ice-cold cola on a hot summers day. It's the dying of the leaves in the fall. Its the flowers that bloom their brightest colors in the spring. Its those cold winter nights that chill you to the bone. The Elated Sob Story is about as lo-fi as one could get. It was started in Star's tiny bedroom back in 2005. The music is done on a cheap recorder in a bedroom, away from those who might hear the softness of her voice that she hasnt quite learned how to use yet. "The Elated Sob Story is an alternative, twee, pop, rock musical jubilee where everything is played fast, loose and just a little bit sad." -- Steven Ray Morris from Foggy Ruins of Time blog "...theres the Placebo-esque drum-machine-backed Overbored, drawing influence from The Kills and The Cure, whilst agitated Beach Boys surf-rock-pop ballad Dance Song sounds as if its smothering the angry child of Nirvana under a damp pillow, and thats just three songs..." --Franc Botha, Maddog Magazine "The Elated Sob Story aspires to be a diverse sound of different musical instruments and variety.... Stars sound is unique, and I guarantee that after you listen to her tracks a few times, the melodies will be in your head." --Ruth E.
