Details: Tina Davis is showcasing her gift of singing and songwriting in her new release Falling in Love Again. Released January of this year in Honolulu, Hawaii this album takes you on a journey of love, heartbreak, hope and rediscovery hence the lyrical content on each track. It conveys through song the challenges that are faced in life and how they have given her the opportunity to express herself through song and poetic prose. Love Shouldnt Hurt So Bad and It Wasnt Worth The Pain was written in the earlier stages of her journey. Lord Im Calling You and Sometimes I Wonder were written when it became clear to her that GOD was not allowing these things to happen to her but for her personal growth. Tina hopes to use her music as therapy to minister to those with similar life experiences. She also wants to convey to her listeners that despite the challenges incurred along the way; there truly is hope for healing, finding peace and ultimately finding love again as delivered in Falling In Love Again and I Can Be Your Queen. She also introduces a hint of Central American essence with Spanish vocals in her song Te Quiero. Born in Queens New York, Tina has always had singing and songwriting in her heart and as her passion since childhood as noted in This Has Been My Dream. She began playing the piano at age five and wrote and published her first song in 1989. Tina writes all of her music and hopes to release the remaining 150 compositions in the near future. A graduate of George Washington University and Central Texas College, she serves her country as a member of the Armed Forces until her retirement date. Tina now lives in Hawaii where she will continue to promote her music to support the local Womens Shelter. Tina has performed in the Panama Republic of Panama and has performed in several venues in Hawaii to include the Taste of Kalihi an annual charity event hosted by the Chamber of Commerce. She holds quarterly listening parties in Hawaii for those who desire to indulge. Tina states that her musical influences have always been Angela Windbush, Shirley Murdock, Alyson Williams, Albertina Walker and a host of other Artists from mixed genres. This album is a lyrical blend of Rhythm Blues, Soul, Jazz and Funk interjecting soothing vocals that tell a story. She attributes her healing to the blessings of her Creator. Falling In Love Again will allow you to experience these blessings as you join her on her journey of hope and rediscovery.
