Details: Chicos Bail Bonds - Not just another blues band! Yeah, I know, youve all heard that before. But this time it really means something. Now think about it for a moment, most local blues bands are made up of rock and rollers who didnt get too far and so they've turned to playing some version of the blues in hopes of keeping themselves in the limelight otherwise known as Too old for rock and roll but ready for the blues syndrome. Now, Im NOT saying thats a bad thing oh no, far from it! It brings more attention to the blues.. a GOOD thing! But being a ex rocker seems to be considered the norm for a typical blues bands just now trying to break into the blues scene. Dont believe me? Check out most up and coming "blues" act. Most all those bands are made of guys who are seasoned rock acts. They dont do because they live and love the blues, they do it because they think its the only thing left to do! Here in lies the difference - Chicos Bail Bonds is made of three musicians still in their prime, who have been playing the blues since their late teens and have love playing the blues from the very beginning! More concerned about playing the blues with respect for their fans and themselves, then about making it big has allowed themselves to hone their skills by playing tons of smoky bars and blues festivals in and around the California southland for years! And for the past 4 years, performing as the group you see and hear now. So due to popular demand of many of Chicos fans that wanted to hear the band at home, theyve finally taken time out playing live and recorded their first, all original CD which was just slated to be distributed to their live show fans but is now being made available to the general public to experience. So, who are these guys? Lets check it out. Chicos Bail Bonds is - Eric Ramirez - Guitar / Vocals Was inspired at a very early age by the likes of Buddy Guy, B.B. King, John Lee Hooker and Stevie Ray Vaughn. But he also enjoyed the typical rock bands of today like U2 and even classic acts like the Beatles. But he knew early on where he wanted to be as well as what he wanted to play as a musician and he stayed true to his calling and it shows with every chord he plays and every song he sings. Its truly not from the heart, but from his very soul that his music emits every feeling inside. A young man with an old soul. The same is true for- Aaron Murillo - Bass / Vocals His formal training stems from classic to modern jazz where he was originally taught on Cello and transferred his knowledge to electric bass. Hes never really played in any modern or classic rock bands even though his taste runs from everything from Beethoven to Wolfmother. But his true calling has always been for the blues and his passion for it is as solid as the bass lines he lays down. And in songs like Times are getting Tougher or Get off my Train you not only hear but feel that passion he has for his music. Joseph Velosa Drums / Percussions / Keyboards / Harp / Backup Vocals Never formally trained but grew up inspired in a house full of music. From big band swing sounds from his fathers collections to his siblings favorite rock/punk bands All of whom played one instrument or another. He doesnt claim to be any one style but keeps a true respect for all of musics genres. Playing blues has become an inspiration to him and he loves the fact that the blues truly crosses many of musics lines to become whatever the performer wants it to be. For him, the blues speaks simplicity and honesty - a language anyone can relate to. Lets face it. Anyone can play, speak, or even sing the blues. But it takes heart and character and a real love of the blues to bring it to life and to pass that feeling to an audience and Chicos delivers on every song! But be warned! This CD isnt for everybody, just those chosen few who really know and love the blues! Are you one of those few? Enjoy!
