Details: Jason Conley is a West Virginia born singer/songwriter. Who left the coal fields at age 23 to find songs and play them. Hailing from a long line of gospel musicians and back porch bluegrass players. He channels everything that he loves and admires in anyone or anything he comes to know. Born in Boone co and raised on brushy fork of crawley creek, in the small town of chapmanville in Logan county. The son of a disabled guitar pickin coal miner and a Southern Virginia belle. Spent most of his early years hanging out with all the kids that smoked cigarettes, drank beer, Skipped school and got into fights. Started playing guitar at age 11 but it wasn't until age 17 he began singing along with his guitar riffs. Which were mostly vague impressions of his fathers versions of Hank Willam or Johnny Cash songs and Others like the Carter family and The Stanley Brothers, as well as Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs. Other sounds came along with time like any other person growing up in the 80's and 90's if you were listening to music you were catching on to the movements of it as well. However the most moving songs ever felt by Conley was as a child in a old primitive baptist church where his mother is a member. "There are no instruments or musical recordings in there church, its just all vocal harmony and the first time you hear it you feel like you should'nt be hearing it , I felt like i was invading someones privacy, someone's deepest feeling that they rarely show to anyone""Its the purest raw emotion I've ever heard" "You can truly hear the solid root of the Stanley Brothers sound in that church" "Leaves your skin crawling and your hairs standing, and almost always makes you cry." After several attempts at bands in his highschool years and after, he Ended up in West Palm Beach Florida at age 23. Conley went on to play in several different projects in Florida until additioning for a management company. Were he was approached by a Sony/ATV Publishing representative. Who insisted on him moving to Nashville to better his chances in the music scene. After realizing the dinosaur code of the Nashville songwriter scene. The appeal and excitement of it all was vanquished. However it was a definite turning point in his life and songwriting for ever more. "Nashville was like a living in a mirror ball, the streets, venues and clubs are full of people doing the same thing. Trying to write a hit song and meet the connection of their destiny." "Which was a wonderful thing to be a part of for a while and it was definitely fun to watch" The California connection came along in the form of Johnny Callahan. A Northern California Singer/songwriter who met up with Conley in the Blue Bird cafe in Nashville. The two proceeded to form a band called SlapShoeFly and went on to record the album in the fall of 2004. Soon enough Conley found himself in the windy pines of Northern California. Where he proceeded with Johnny Callahan and David Waymire in the SlapShoeFly and recorded 11 of his original songs on the first album 'Decades In The Grain' along with several collaborations with Callahan and playing on 2 of his original works for the album. Now living and writing in Chico California. Conley has released 11 more of his Original tunes with Callahan and new bassist Tristan Behm on the new SlapShoeFly Album 'On The Trail Of The Sun' also playing on Callahan's tracks for the album. Now the first attempt at a solo career has been established with the release of The Postulant Thief. You can keep an ear down on the tracks for Jason Conley he's here to stay.
