Details: The story of Far and Back begins in 2002 with the search for a special musical instrument. A piano, but not any piano. An old piano out of tune, failed in a secondhand store, which obviously had ended its life, but remained however inhabited by a rich musical story. To set this piano as the first stone of the project was a way to take the contrary of the modern technologies, and to build a fragile but sincere sound material rather than making a musical performance. Little by little this tired piano faded out from the tracks that it had given birth to, so that only a shadow remains, furtive but essential: poetry.
