After graduating from college, Ron continued co-writing, recording songs with his twin brother, Arnold. They constantly promoted their demos to record labels and music publishers in the Detroit area. "We found" says Ron, "that much of the music was custom-made for a select group of artists. There were too many people trying to second guess each other by writing in one particular style." In 1976, the Patton Brothers moved to Los Angeles. Shortly afterwards, they began writing songs for Holland-Dozier-Holland Productions in Hollywood. In 1980, Ron co-founded Baywest Records, which was based in Northern California. Co-wrote, produced, and arranged following songs released on Baywest: *Don't Blame Me When You Lose Me (Artist: Michael Peyser) *Your Key Fits (Artist: Laurie Roberts) *Hook Me (Artist: Leroy "Ace" Miller) *Ain't Nuthin' New Under The Sun (Except My Love) (Artist: Dallas) *Has Somebody Else Been Lovin' You?
