Details: Stringer Belle was unofficially born out of a jam session in Philadelphia in 2002, when Matt McLean put music to the song Discover Yourself, which his sister Emily had written earlier that year at age 13. 6 years later, they have released their first EP Pillowblock, recorded in a closet-sized studio in Matt's San Francisco apartment over the span of 7 days. Matt and Emily have very similar musical roots - based heavily on their fathers acoustic guitar playing - yet very different musical training and backgrounds. Emily started singing at a young age and has dabbled in flute, piano, and guitar over the years. She resides in Brooklyn and performs in and around NYC. Matt picked up the guitar at age 19, and has written and performed solo music as well as played in local bay area bands.
