Fungus music. This stuff grows on you. An eclectic mix of funk, rock, blues, punk, latin, and country. A fun variety album documenting a journey down the highway of life with profound lyrics and catchy tunes, all written and played by one man. No computers 15 MP3 Songs ROCK: Funk Rock, ROCK: Grunge Details: This is a collection of songs I wrote between 1985 to 1993. It's whatever came out of me based on where I was and what I was seeing (or seeking) at the time. It's an electric mix that goes from funk, to latin, to rock, to punk, to folk, and to some places undefined. I play all the instruments (drums, bass, guitar, singing, harmonica) and started in 1988 with my first demo tape entitled "Chiropractic On My Back" as I was deciding on either a career as a musician or a doctor. I chose both. The name Highway Face was given to me and I adopted it. It symbolizes how all of us are on a journey on this highway of life, each with lines and looks and voices and stories just in our faces alone. I have done three demo tapes since then, all which sold well in Canada. This is my first CD with cleaned up versions and new unreleased songs. Because I love different styles, there are a variety of songs to appease everyone, and most people comment on the philosophical lyrical content, without getting too deep where one is lost in metaphors and can't relate. In the words of my mentor Frank Zappa, music is the best! Another side of my life is as a Specialized Kinesiologist and doctor of Chiropractic.
