Get Paid To Watch TV Grab The Chips & Soda, Curl Up On The Couch And Lets Make Some Money Watching TV? "Making money watching TV is as simple as changing the channels!" TV Is Born Television pounced upon the scene during one of the worst economic periods in our country history the Great Depression. As a result, TV introduction to a potential viewing public went largely unnoticed. People had more than enough to do trying to provide for their families. Despite that timing, a few people had a chance to view the future. That exactly what they thought TV was, but even they could not have dreamed of the successful industry television has become. With the advent of cable television, there are dozens of stations now competing for the viewer and showing an extraordinary range of programming from week to week. TV TV TV! Early on, there was only one station. NBC (The National Broadcasting Company) was the first to broadcast programs a few hours a week on the television set. It hard to imagine TV today on such a limited basis, but every industry has to start somewhere. Within a couple of years, there were a number of stations joined NBC and programming was expanded. Television flourished in the fifties and new programming was the rage of the industry. Each year many of us looked forward to the introduction of new shows to watch along with our favorites held over from the previous programming year. Family gatherings around the TV set were common as more and more households obtained its own set. Today, 100's of millions have a television sets, not to mention a (VCR) (DVD) (TV Recorder Box), all to keep up with the latest offerings from a seemingly infinite number of channels. Satellite dishes have expanded viewing capability well past our normal limits. There's a lot of profit & great deals...
