The Dog Before he became a multi-million dollar selling rapper The Dog had already established a reputation on the underground scene long before any record label signed him, battling rappers from town to town and moving over 20,000 street mix tapes from New York to Los Angeles with local DJ Superior. Before the six #1 Billboard LPs Before he sold over 22 million records before he even starred in any movies This is the making of a superstar ... also hear 14 freestyles that made the world listen Exclusive producer Superior for Most Hated Entertainment/ G.O.G. Big Jinx Superior has worked with Big Jinx since the age of 15, and put him on to DMX. Superior and DMX had a group called Gangsters of the Ghetto. Jinx was one of Superior's Young Guns. Some say he was the next big thing out of Yonkers. Big Jinx was on 2 multi-platinum records - The Great Depression featuring K-Slay and other BloodLine artists as well as the soundtrack to DMX's #1 movie "Cradle 2 The Grave". He's featured on the underground hit single "It's Gonna Be What's It's Gonna Be" featuring Loose (a former BloodLine artist). Superior used to rap and did a ton of mix CDs with DMX from '89 to '97, DMX used to blow artists out everywhere he went, Superior was also a young kid doing his thing and soon became the #1 D.J. from Yonkers working with The L.O.X., Mary J Sporty Thievez, PHIL BLUNTS AND OTHERS Superior has his own record company named Most Hated Entertainment. By himself he's done over 500 parties and has the flyers to prove it. SUPERIOR RUNS Y.O!!!! HANDS DOWN (D M X AND SUPERIOR put Yonkers on the fuckin' map!!!)
