Naturally gifted, with little formal training, she continues to compose and produce all of her songs by ear. In 1998 she moved to North Carolina in pursuit of her dream. When asked why she chose North Carolina? She says, "It was Spiritual guidance." Since then she has started her own music production company, has been the music director of a Unity Church, and just released the highly anticipated CD "A Musical Messenger". Her goals include: gaining global distribution, writing for other artists and, of course, winning several Grammys.
