Born in Stockholm Sweden, Lagerström grew up with legendary voices such as Ella Fitzgerald, Billie Holiday, Astrud Gilberto and Anita Baker. Although influenced by these artists, Victoria Lagerström's sound is distinctively her own. Victoria studied singing throughout her school years. Music was a passion, but not the priority in her life until 2005. At that time Lagerström went through a profound transformation, initiated by a surgery that left her questioning what was truly important. The eleven songs on her debut album "Heaven Sent" were conceived in this receptive time. Once Lagerström began to focus entirely on music serendipitous events began to happen on a regular basis, aiding her on her journey. Some of Sweden's best musicians assembled to contribute to the refined sound of "Heaven Sent". "Heaven Sent" focuses on love and life, loss and gain, frustration resulting from being stuck in old patterns and the glimpses of promising new ways. As "Heaven Sent" was finished and her professional career began to blossom, her personal life transformed as well. Lagerström met American singer/songwriter Dave Tate in the fall of 2006 and moved to The US shortly after. The couple got married in 2007 and are now doing music together. Victoria's career continues to expand with the 2008 release of "Heaven Sent" and of the duo CD "The Same Heart". Lagerström and Tate are touring the west coast this spring as well as finishing their second duo CD in the vast red rock desert of southern Utah. Tags: pop
