Debbie is a Contemporary Christian Children's Music singer/songwriter. She performs every week for the Children at her church in a large children's production called Breakaway. Debbie is a mother of three children herself. Debbie is married to Randy Paulsen, who acts as her manager. She has a special love for reaching children for Christ. In this world that is constantly bombarding our children with visions and audio on the television and radio, with things that are not pleasing to God, she feels that it is time to fill our childrens minds with those things that will bring praise to God and help build kids up as Godly children who will be Godly adults. Debbie is 35 years old and has had a short career in the public school system in Florida as an Assistant to the classroom teachers which led her to a passion to return to college, in effort to obtain her degree in teaching, as well as an emphasis on music. Her desire is to follow God's leading, and reach the children of this generation with His word, in a fun and exciting way, through music. With the prayer that it will plant a seed that will last for a lifetime.
