BLUES: Guitar Blues, BLUES: Blues Vocals Details:

"Something for Everyone" is my debut album. This CD is a collection of original songs that I had been performing live for years. My band and I decided that it was time to record these songs and go for our place in rock and roll history. The music on this CD is a cross between Eric Clapton, Randy Newman, Van Morrison, and Bob Seger. I guess you could say that these Cats had a big influence in my songwriting and performance style. The song styles go from New Orleans to the suburbs of Chicago to the Mississippi Delta to the beaches of California to the swamps in Georgia. The core band for this recording was Burleigh Drummond from Ambrosia on drums, Mick Mahan from Pat Benetar on bass, Michael Murphy from REO Speedwagon on keys, Jerry Peterson from Billy and the Beaters on Sax, Gabe Katona from Starship on Keys, along with a supporting cast of great singer/songwriters. Mighty Mo Rodgers, Teresa James, and Dillon O'Brian. My good friend and keyboard player John Herron opened the doors to his studio for me and opened his heart and set me on my way to making this dream come true. We knocked out the basic tracks to fourteen songs in one day. It was electric. The band was on a musical high. You can hear the songs taking on a life of their own. We kept plowing. Most tracks were one take since we already knew the songs. We all felt like we were giving new birth to the music. Later that night David Jackson visited us from Jackson Brown who brought his accordion with him. We put him on some tracks and it was magic. Then John Herron jumped on the Hammond B3 Organ and took us to another level. It was one of those sessions you can only dream about having. Everything fell into place. Each beat, each note was delivered at the right time at the right place. I will always remember this as one of my favorite CD's and sessions. Thanks to some really great friends and musicians. Jim Gibson
