Details: So this is this first album in which Jonathan Taylor collaborates with others but to great affect and you certainly wont be disappointed! Sincere thanks go to Kirsten Guschal for her invaluable input, arrangement and vocal on Eene Meene Miste, The Hollis Robinson Project for bass (Richard Hollis) banjo (Joellen Robinson) on I Love You, to poet Steve Wilkinson for Yes Mister Bush, to Tim Moon for accordion on Pirouette and brass/percussion on hidden track Mother - Mad Moon Mix. Eene Meene Miste : Inspired by Classic Thread - This Is The Secret Of Grandads Trunk To the memory of Gottfried Sandrock Offizierkiste The Great War Forum 1914-1918.invisionzone.com/forums/ What have people said so far? 'I bet lots of people say that but you've got an amazing voice, really intense - wow!' AND 'your music is inspired,' it was "simple and sincere - Fresh magic in a choking, dusty world" Audience feedback - Cowling House Concerts I've been reading a poetry anthology called 'Up the line to death 1914-18' and I've never heard songs capturing the feeling of being out there so well. Kirsten Guschal. 'Jonathan is a thoughtful and intelligent lyric writer and a superb musician. His voice ranges from Cat Stevenesque right through to smoky blues.' Richard Hollis. The Unofficial Steeleye Span Website 'Jonathan who has real talent has identified the crimes that are committed in our name. The songs are beautiful and the cause a worthy one' Tony Benn. British Politician, Author Anti-War Activist. 'Visited your website, downloaded the album (Debut - The Collection) and liked what I heard very much. I've put a little plug for it onto The Folk Corporation's forum.' Barry talkawhile/ 'Jonathan comes from a very talented family and talented he is!'

The Country Star Page 'He has a fabulous voice, really rich and resonant and full of emotion, very distinctive.' State Of Undress. 'You sound like the UK Vissotzky - accentuating on messages and lyrics, not only the music which is good.' Kiril Zdravkov. Manager Cosmic Voices
