Female-fronted pop-like holiday music--touches of cello and triangle... 6 MP3 Songs POP: Quirky, ROCK: Acoustic Details: "Christmas music for people who don't like Christmas music." Dale Johnson, i-see-sound "Snow Emergency" is the new holiday EP from Cincinnati based, pale beneath the blue. The disc is full of quirky humor, warmth and features both originals and some unconventional seasonal covers for those that are tired of being bombarded by the "same ol', same ol'" Christmas tunes. The band offers their take on such tunes as the Ass Ponys quietly beautiful "Last Night It Snowed", The Pretenders' "2000 Miles" and Rogers Hammerstein's "My Favorite Things". Pale beneath the blue's original tunes include the bittersweet "Christmas Break", "The Snow Is Falling"--a Cincinnati-centric "post modern Christmas carol" and "Opus", an ode to a stuffed version Berke Breathed's comic penguin. "Christmas is my favorite time of the year," says Rhonda Everitt, the driving force behind pale beneath the blue. "I recorded 'Snow Emergency' to give people, and myself, something new to listen to, enjoy and make new memories to this holiday season."
