Well, almost. Maybe you are like our friend Joe. When Joe was a teenager (long before many of you were born) he got his Mom to agree that he could buy a guitar with the money he had saved doing odd jobs. Get Excited! Saturday rolled around. Joe was so excited he could hardly sit still. Finally he and his mother were off to the music store. Joe paused in front of the store and pointed out the guitar he wanted to his Mom. Half an hour later Joe and his mother exited the store. Joe was toting a musical case. . .however it was much too small to carry a guitar. Instead of the guitar he had been lusting over for months Joe left the music store with a violin! That was sixty-three years ago and to this very day Joe has no idea how to play the guitar much less a violin! Oh, he appreciates the music of the violin but playing that instrument was never his passion. Dont let it happen to you!
