"Think Neil Young circa "Harvest" crossed with the hipster cool of Neko Case." - The Pittsburgh Tribune Review, July 12, 2007 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Psych-folk, POP: Quirky Details: "Easily one of the most important local releases of the year." -Pittsburgh City Paper, 7.10.07 "...the band's music takes on a mellow, golden glow-- think Neil Young circa 'Harvest' crossed with the hipster cool of Neko Case." -Pittsburgh Tribune Review, 7.12.07 "Led by singer-songwriter Hallie Pritts, Boca Chicas second record Transform Into Beasts is so good, so great sounding, it deserves some national attention (come on, tastemaker Web sites!). Pritts, joined by Susanna Meyer, Greg Dutton, Megan Williams and Matt Miller, has crafted a record that should win the hearts of those who love artists such as the Decemberists, Laura Veirs, Bright Eyes, Amy Millan, Wilco, and Jolie Holland. Paper Way kicks off the album gently but whimsically, and it leads into Cobblestones, which is treated with picked guitar, banjo and strings, and Beasts, which reasons, We all want the things we all learn to fear. Blackberries gets a tad spooky, with accordion and Murder by Deathstyle arrangement. Ballad Rooftops Alleyways is one of the discs highlights. My Favorite Rock Stars should bring any audience to its knees with its Midwestern taste and Neil Young-style guitar power, and Big Calm grasps listeners hands, assures them delicately, and urges, 'Just take a rest/settle down/take a drink.' Those who attend the CD show, take Pritts advice." - Brian Krasman, The McKeesport Daily News 7.12.07
