Details: About the artist: Goran Rista is Serbian-born artist who picked drums as his instrument of choice for self-expression. He has traveled the world over, backing up various acts in many musical genres. All of these experiences have influenced his creative being, which is evident in his work. He has performed with many people including: Ole Ole (Rumba/Flamenco), Carli Munoz, Eddie Gomez, Neil Finn (Crowded House), Estefano, Lanzallamas Monofonica, as well as various groups with his brother Boyan. I love many genres of music and I very much enjoy both listening and playing them. Gorans drumming style can be described as as combination of clean execution, power, wide dynamic range, instantaneous interplay with music and touch. About the album: "For many years I have been wanting to put together my own album. Many times I've been frustrated with having to play in this or that way and not have much artistic control over what is going on around me musically. I grew increasingly hungry to create music the way I feel it. This would enable expression in a way true to myself. I've been influenced by various music over the years and it was about time I put it all together into something that is uniquely mine. I went for whatever came to my mind and sounded right in my head." "I have purposely refrained from hyper-compressing this CD (as it is the case with major labels' squashed releases). This album has optimal balance of dynamics, volume and transients, resulting in a natural-sounding, punchy, clean music that breathes with life. Want more volume? - Turn it up and feel the power:) "
