Inspired by love, loss, and personal awakenings, "Jen Spen" shows enormous growth in this, her sophomore release. With a steadily-growing fan base through MySpace (see link at bottom left on page), Jennifer is inspired to continue sharing her life and passions through music. Her style is ever-evolving, and you will hear her incredible range of style and musical ability on this album. "Maybe Not" is a fan favorite; its simplicity and humor attract many listeners over and over. The 2008 version of "My Heart and Me" is Jennifer's way of blowing a kiss to the original recording, as heard on her first self-release, 'Back to the Wall' (also available). "Desire" is another fan favorite at the moment. The ambient techno vibe and yearning vocals will haunt you and embrace you. Each track has a vibe of its own, but the entire album still manages to feel cohesive... Travel down the audio path of 'Sonic Revelation' and awaken at a new musical awareness! ----- JENNIFER SPENGLER BIO/INFO Jennifer tends to be comfortable in the green-blue-purple area of the spectrum, occasionally crossing over into the red. Take that however you want to... ;) Jennifer was born with music in her blood.

She knew from the moment she entered her Kindergarten music class that she and music had a relationship that was uncommon and unlike anything else she'd ever felt... or would ever feel. She grew up with a musical mother and remembers going with her to her band practices and gigs: "It was always so exciting to see and hear my mother playing music. I would ache to be up on stage with her. I hoped one day that I'd be there singing my songs and delivering my own musical messages." Writing and composing songs from age 8, Jennifer's style has grown with her through the tribulations and triumphs in her life. Though her style is hard to categorize (she calls it "Neo-Pop"), there are elements of Rock, Pop, R&B, and even at times Hip-Hop and Techno; these styles mesh to form an intricate set of sounds that is unique and somewhat addictive. Whether it's a complex song production or just her and a piano/keyboard, Jennifer manages to convey emotion with soulful vocals and heartfelt lyrics. "I'm inspired by almost anything. Sadness, happiness, it doesn't matter. If there's something I feel, I'll write about it. It's my outlet; it's the way I find myself." Jennifer Spengler currently resides in NC and is actively pursuing a musical career. That's no easy task, and she's aware of that. "Hey, the hardships of this business can only create more great material!" One thing's for sure: This girl's got talent! -- PLEASE, IF YOU OWN A COPY OF THIS CD OR MP3S, LEAVE A REVIEW... Thanks! :)
